

A two-day Symposium to celebrate the Centenary of The Galton Institute

What makes us human?

Wednesday 7th and Thursday 8th November, 2007

Darwin Lecture Theatre, University College London, Gower Street, WC1

- What Makes us human, and different from all other animals, namely causal beliefs - Professor Lewis Wolpert
- Genetics and the Mind (normal variation) - Professor Robert Plomin
- Human evolution and genetic change - Dr Mark Thomas
- Darwinian selection, rerogenetics, and the future of the human species - Professor Lee M Silver
- Genetics and World Health: Future Opportunities and New Ethical Issues - Professor Sir David Weatherall
- From Eugenics to Epigenetics: Exploring the Decoupling of Human Sexual and Reproductive Behaviours - Professor John Hobcraft
- Genetics and Language - Professor Fareneh Vargha-Khadem
- Molecular Windows into Speech and Language - Dr Simon E. Fisher
- Should we stay human? - Professor John Harris
- Eugenics – then and now - Professor David Galton
- Legal rights of the embryo: A European Perspective - Professor Reinhard Merkel

Admission free but strictly by ticket obtainable from:

The General Secretary

The Galton Institute, 19 Northfields Prospect, London SW18 1PE

Email: betty.nixon.t21@btinternet.com Web Site: www.galtoninstitute.org.uk